Yesterday, in recognition of the International Day of Ending Violence against Women, Ambassador Wohlers opened a photo exhibition at the City Museum of Skopje featuring photos taken by Ilina Arsova. Speaking at the event, the Ambassador said "(Ilina) continues to use sports as a way to empower women in Macedonia, and to inspire the next generation of young women here to embrace their own worth, their own goals, and their own inner strength." The event was held to coincide with the International Day of Ending Violence Against Women, recognized by the United Nations on November 25. More than 20 photos were displayed, chronicling Ilina's travels and adventures as a mountain climber and outdoor enthusiast.
